The evidence is in for fitness. Regular exercise has been associated with more health benefits than anything else known to man. In short, exercise keeps you healthy and makes you look and feel better. Other New Year's resolutions at the top of the list include better work/life balance, spending more time with family and friends, managing debt, spending less and saving more, getting organized, learning something new, and of course to quit smoking. Based on other survey results, a small percentage of us are simply throwing in the towel and aren't making any resolutions.

KAWS: Where the End Starts Through January 22

Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth
3200 Darnell Street, Fort Worth, TX 76107
The Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth hosts a major survey exhibition of the work of Brooklyn-based artist KAWS (American, born 1974) on view in Fort Worth through January 22, 2017, and traveling to the Yuz Museum in Shanghai, China, March through August 2017. Organized by Modern Art Museum of Fort Worth curator Andrea Karnes in close collaboration with the artist, this presentation features key paintings, sculptures, drawings, toys, and street art interventions to examine KAWS's prolific career in depth, revealing critical aspects of his formal, conceptual, and collaborative developments over the last twenty years.

Spanning the worlds of graffiti, pop art, and consumer culture, KAWS's bodies of work are highly charged, each conveying his underlying wit, irreverence, and affection for our times, as well as his agility as an artist. He has primarily looked to and appropriated from pop-culture animations (including The Smurfs, The Simpsons, SpongeBob, Hanna-Barbera, and Peanuts) to form his artistic vocabulary for his paintings, drawings, and sculptures. Now well known for his larger-than-life sculptures and hard-edge paintings that emphasize line and color, KAWS's cast of hybrid cartoon/human characters, with similarities to popular cartoon figures and logos like Mickey Mouse and the Michelin Man, are perhaps the strongest examples of his exploration of humanity. These figures have amicable names—Chum, Companion, Accomplice—and express and provoke an array of human emotions, from sad, overwhelmed, pathetic, and weary, to shy. They reflect feelings and situations we can empathize with in presentations that are balanced with humor, heartening in their cartoon aesthetic.

Major support for KAWS: WHERE THE END STARTS is generously provided by the Texas Commission on the Arts, with additional support provided by the Kleinheinz Family Endowment for the Arts and Education and from the Fort Worth Promotion and Development Fund.

Penguin Days at the Dallas Zoo

The Dallas Zoo's annual winter gift of discounted admission is here! The admission price dropped just in time for the holiday season and cooler weather. For the second year in a row, the zoo started its Penguin Days pricing a month early, in December. Until February 28, Dallas Zoo guests can visit the African penguins (and all the other 2,000+ residents) for just $7 per person. (Children age 2 and younger and Dallas Zoo members are always free.) Winter hours are from 9am to 4pm, Monday through Friday.

The Dallas Zoo welcomes more than 1 million visitors every year, and Penguin Days special pricing is the zoo's way of thanking the community for its support throughout the year. Even if it's chilly, the lower admission offers guests a chance to enjoy the warmth of the nation's most venomous Herpetarium, the creepy-crawlies of Bug U!, facts about great apes at the Jake L. Hamon Gorilla Conservation Research Station, and to hear the trumpeting of an elephant in the Simmons Safari Base Camp at Giants of the Savanna.
