SANTA FE DAYS

www.santafedays.com

The 12th Annual Santa Fe Days in the Park is one of North Texas' premiere cultural events, showcasing the vast works of American Indian artisans from all parts of the United States. Between 10am and 5:30pm both days of the event, visitors can explore and purchase true, natural turquoise jewelry, beautiful sterling silverwork, beadwork, leather work, hand-tied dance shawls, knives and one of a kind pottery, all handcrafted by authentic Native American Indian jewelers and artisans.

This year, over 40 tribes will be represented with over 70 Native American artists.

The 2016 season is going to be exhilarating and full of new adventures that every member of the family will enjoy. Especially exciting is the debut this spring of Discovery Point, one of the largest capital investments in the park's 27-year history. So, contact your concierge for discount tickets soon!

COMING LATE SPRING – IMMERSIVE NEW DOLPHIN EXPERIENCES

Discovery Point, the most highly anticipated of the 2016 additions, will feature a new realm within SeaWorld showcasing bottlenose dolphins. Standing on the habitat's sandy shores, guests will be able to observe dolphins cruising the surface, or from an underwater viewing area, they can see the energetic animals playing beneath the waves. In addition, guests who wish to come nose-to-nose with these amazing marine mammals will have the opportunity to reserve an unforgettable opportunity to swim with dolphins for a separate fee. While guests anxiously await the opening of Discovery Point in late spring, they still have the opportunity to see bottlenose dolphins during the park's Dolphin Walk, a self-guided, behind-the-scenes walking tour.

NEW ENTRY ENHANCEMENTS

An innovative new look and a barrier-less entrance will be among the first changes guests will notice upon their arrival to SeaWorld. The iconic marquee of the new entrance area is an immense water wave that stretches 85 ft. in length and reaches 24 ft. tall at its highest point. In addition to the new contemporary design of its entryway, San Antonio will become the first SeaWorld theme park to replace traditional turnstiles with ambassadors. These ambassadors will personally welcome each guest to the park, and scan tickets using handheld technology. This new process expedites park entry for guests and creates a welcoming experience upon their arrival.

SEPARATE ENTRANCE FOR AQUATICA WATERPARK

Entry into SeaWorld's highly-acclaimed waterpark previously required the purchase of a 2-park ticket. Starting this season, when Aquatica opens March 5, guests will be able to purchase a separate ticket just for this park. The evolution of Aquatica as a stand-alone park was prompted by market research and guest feedback that showed strong consumer demand to visit Aquatica as a separate experience with its own single-day ticket.

2016 SPECIAL EVENTS

Providing even more reasons to visit, SeaWorld is enriching its strong lineup of special events -- all of which are included with SeaWorld park admission.

- "Spring into Night" is SeaWorld San Antonio's spring break festival featuring Texan lumberjacks competing against Alaskan rivals. It also includes special shows and nightly fireworks.
- "Seven Seas Food Festival" sets sail weekends in April and May. Guests can sample and sip their way around the park, enjoying craft beers, wonderful wines and global fusion food.
- "Summer Nights" offers special evening entertainment and later closing times.
- "Howl-O-Scream" transforms SeaWorld San Antonio from a theme park to a scream park during weekends in October with sinister haunted houses and "terror-tories."
- "SeaWorld's Christmas Celebration" brings waves of holiday cheer, millions of lights, and Santa in November and December.

DART to St. Patty's

Everyone is an honorary Irishman on St. Patrick's Day. And the Dallas St. Patrick's Parade &

Festival is the largest in the Southwest. Best of all, it's right on the DART Rail lines.

Held the Saturday closest to St. Patrick's Day, the event boasts nearly 100 floats and more than 125,000 attendees each year. The all-day festival, this year on March 19, is a beloved tradition that includes incredible food and beverages in addition to the signature parade, and culminates in a post-parade concert that turns Greenville Avenue into the biggest party of the year.

The parade route begins at Greenville Avenue and Blackwell Street, then continues south to SMU Boulevard. Along the two-mile route, throngs of revelers are on hand to celebrate the occasion and cheer the outrageous floats, authentic bagpipers and colorful costumes. There are more than 1,700 Irish, part-Irish and not-so-Irish parade participants.

With such a show of pride in the Emerald Isle, parking is a hot commodity. Luckily, DART's Lovers Lane and Mockingbird stations are right on the parade route. It's definitely the safest and most convenient way to reach the festivities, and a local day pass is only $5.

Grab your four-leaf clover, get your green on and go see how Dallas does St. Patty's! It all begins at 11am. Local taverns and restaurants participate in a block party that runs into the night, so plan on a full day of spirited Irish fun. Find out more at dallasstpatrickspatrade.com.
